BURKE MOBBED ON THE FIELD.

Hanlon's Men Get a Lead of Two Runs, but Davis's Three-Bagger Evened It Up.

(Special to The Evening World UNION PARK, BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 5.-Under a heavy escort of police the New York team and the accompanying omnibuses filled with rooters reached the grounds at 2.30. The Chief of Police insisted upon a squad of police riding on the conveyances because of yesterday's imbroglios. Burke was perched on top of the players' vehicle, waving the milk-white flag as defiantly

One of the most marked characteristics of the team has been the light-heartedness and cameraderie that have prevailed ever since they left the Polo Grounds for their Western trip Sept. 7. Cheerful Charley Farrell and Jack Doyle are addicted to singing, and the bus usually trundles through the streets to a marry tune struck up by these two. The team and the correspondents accompanying them join in the chorus with a will, to the as:onishment of the natives along the route. Yesterday, "Mamie, Come Kiss Your Honey Boy," was rendered with great effect, and to-day, "Linger Longer, Lou," was the selection. This merry humor is gall and wormwood to the local rooters.

Yesterday's game seemed to have a dampening effect upon the Orioles' admirers, who did not flock to the grounds in the same proportions to-day. The local press and the rooters themselves are beginning to score the pennant-winners for their spoiled-child attitude, and when McGraw began to hear the talk around town he concluded he had ridden his high horse long enough and confided to Jennings that he would cover third base to-day as usual.

President Nick Young's criticism that McGraw's playing yesterday was the dirtiest seen on a ball field in years finds many echoe... as does his criticism of the game itself, which he declares New York won by superior all round playing.

Burke, while practising in left field, was interfered with by a lot of spectators and was soon surrounded by an angry mob. The police rushed over and the New York players formed a cordon around him and pushed the crowd back. Derisive jeers from the bleachers followed this demonstration.

The Baltimore players said at 3.39 P. M. that if the Von Der Horsts do not turn over the receipts of these two games to Ward and Hanlon, as the elected representatives of both teams, they will not leave for New York tonight.

All day long Supt. Arthur Bell, who elected representatives of both teams, they will not leave for New York tonight.

All day long Supt, Arthur Bell, who was selected by the players to look out for their monetary interests, has watted upon the pleasure of the Yon Der Horsts, but he has not been able to get any satisfaction. Dan Brouthers says the boys want the money banked as had been agreed to by both teams, subject coily to the Joint check of Hanlon and Ward in payment of expenses incurred during the series.

The whole Temple Cup series is for the benefit of the players, and in New York the New York Club management, beyond donating the use of the grounds, has washed its hands of the whole affair. Why the local managers here should want to be mixed up in the matter is a matter of general surprise.

No doubt is cast upon the honesty of the Yon Der Horst brothers, but their mode of conducting business does not meet the approval of the players. The Orioles seem to think when they return from New York they will be confronted with a big bill of expenses which have been incurred without their full knowledge.

All Mr. Bell desired was a certified check, showing exactly what money had been received yesterday. This was the plan agreed upon, and which will be followed in New York.

The batting order was:

Baltimore Players Refuse to Sit in a Theatre with Giants.

(Special to The Evening World.)
BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 5. -This morning opened bright and clear, despite the rain that fell ail night, and Manager Hanlon had his vaunted champions out at Union Park by II o'clock drilling them in baseball. Since last evening they It have issued passes galore, and would not tell what they intended to do with cash received.

No doubt it will be duly banked and fairly divided at the end of the series, but it has not endeared the Von Der Horsts to the New York players.

Capt. Ward and about twenty of the players and reoters went to the Lyceum Theatre list night. All the boxes on one side of the house were reserved for them ann beautifully decoraged in Black and white. "the club's colors." The other boxes were *boxes were *boxes were from the celling labeled. "Baltimore, Champions of the United States, 1891."

A formal invitation had been issued to the Orloles, and duly accepted, but they felt so plaued over their defeat that not one appeard or sent any word. The large and fashionable audience felt the slight, and expressed a rather poor opinion of the champions' childish conduct. When Ward returned to the Eutaw House he found a bundle of congratulating despatches and letters. Treasurer Talcott and Secretary Stackhouse were warmly enthusiastic, promising to show the boys what New York thought of their splendid work. De Wolf Hopper telegfaphed plans for a big reception at the Broadway Theatre, where the boys will occupy the boxes Monday inght.

Promise of Great Football at East-

Should the weather be clear to-morrow, it is probable that an enormous rowd will journey to Eastern Park, Brooklyn, to witness the football game between Yale and the Crescent Athletic between Yale and the Crescent Athletic Club. The game should prove very exciting, as the players of both teams have been practising nearly every day.
The collegians, however, are confident of defeating their rivals easily, while the players of the Crescent team say that they will make them hustle to win.
The game will be started promptly at 330 o'clock, rain or shine.
